NYC flavors Vegas resort

THE Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas resort, sporting a long-winded name after settling a dispute with Cosmopolitan magazine, will have serious New York flavor when it opens in the winter. Scott Conant will run a Scarpetta restaurant and a casual wine bar, and outposts of Manhattan's STK, Blue Ribbon and Estiatorio Milos will also be among the resort's eateries, reports The Post's Andy Wang. Plus, sources say that night-life moguls Noah Tepperberg and Jason Strauss, who operate Avenue here and Tao in Vegas, are close to a deal to operate the property's beach club and an adjacent nightclub.

Prison reading

STEVE Madden showed appreciation for celebrity gossip the other night at an event at his Ludlow Street store hosted by his shoe line, Star magazine and "Twilight" actor Chaske Spencer. When Madden approached Star's advertising sales team, he said, "I love your magazine. You were my favorite thing to read in prison. I used to pass you around to all my friends." Madden in 2002 served 30 months in jail for securities fraud and money laundering.

Robert Pattinson and Kristin Scott Thomas shoot a scene for their new movie, "Bel Ami," in Budapest.
