

March 30, 2010, 9:24 am

More New York Chefs Open in Las Vegas

By FLORENCE FABRICANT

Evan Sung for The New York Times Scott Conant in January in New York City.

Some chefs are still willing to bet on Las Vegas.

The Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas will open in December with an interesting line-up of New York restaurants and chefs who have not yet dipped their toes into the pool there. Scott Conant, who at one time considered joining the now-defunct Fontainebleau Las Vegas, will open a Scarpetta and a wine bar. There will be outposts of Bruce and Eric Bromberg's Blue Ribbon Sushi Bar & Grill, Costas Spiliades's Estiatorio Milos, and STK from the One Group. Comme Ça, David Myers's French brasserie, will invade from Los Angeles.